

BEVENSEE'S RUNAWAY WIFE

WHO IS ALLEGED TO HAVE AT LEAST FIVE HUSBANDS.

Teresa A. Riemenschneider, aged 32, a German woman, who was arrested at 63 Columbia place, Brooklyn, yesterday, is accused of having married a number of men, with a view to robbing them of all the personal property she could get and then abandoning them. She is said to have married five men whose names are known, and it is suspected that she has married others. August Devonsee, a fresco painter of Newark, N. J., to whom she was married on Aug. 23 last, determined to pursue her after she had robbed him of clothing, jewelry, the satisfaction of causing her imprisonment in Brooklyn last night. When Bevenssee married her, he believed that she was a saleswoman in this city, and that she was not married. She said that she lived at 202 Eldridge street, and that her name was Teresa Auerbach. Their acquaintance was made by chance, and it was quickly followed by their marriage. On Oct. 11 she disappeared, and took with her all of Bevenssee's clothing.

jewelry, and money. She cleaned his home of every portable thing of value, and left no trace behind. The abandoned husband felt that he had been duped, and he said that it would be the mission of his life to find out how the woman was punished. After having that satisfaction, he said that he would go back to his shop, and never venture into the world again outside of his little circle. His zeal was rewarded by surprising information, for he learned that his wife was a bigamist, then that she

After six weeks of watching and hunting for the elusive Rinebold, a policeman, a woman named Edridge stated who said that he knew the woman, and that she was his son John's wife. She had been upon a visit to Newark, the shoes were made, and she had seen the number of things which her dead aunt had left her.

"Yah! I am not dead aunt, I suppose," said B. Yevens, in a rage.

He had found the Riemenschneider that the runaway wife could be found at 63 Columbia place, Brooklyn, and with a warrant for her arrest for bigamy and grand larceny granted by a justice of the peace.

yesterday with Detective Fischer of the Newark police. Detectives Zundt and Fischer walked into Mrs. Riemschneider's apartments unexpectedly. She was sitting at her dressing table when they entered a scream ran to the mantel, and seizing a bottle started to swallow its contents. Detective Fischer wrested the bottle from her, and discovered that it contained oxalic acid. She was then arrested on the charges of bigamy and grand larceny, and her husband, John Riemschneider, was arrested as her alibi.

When the detectives conducted their prisoners into Police Headquarters Bevensee followed with a light step. The prisoners broke down in Superintendent Campbell's office and wept like children. Bevensee looked calmly on. Mrs. Remenscheider approached him with tears in her eyes, and said:

"Oh, August, how could you do this against me?"

"His reply was given with a pathetic accent: 'You and I spoiled my life and you must suffer for it. I did live all alone; schain in mein little schore, and will bear the great disgrace you had to travel for me, and you must bear your punishment.'"

The woman sobbed pitifully, and Riemschneider, who is only 22 years old, wept upon her shoulder, but B-vonze was unmoved. Detective Zundt said that three of her husbands, Temple, Auerbach and Grace, were absent.

The prisoners were locked up in the Washington street police station to await extradition to New Jersey. Riemschneider was married to the woman on Oct. 30, 1977, by the Rev. Francis Schneider of this city, who, in another bigamy case in Brooklyn on Monday, was accused by a lawyer of running a "matrimonial bucket shop."

Mr. Schneider in that case testified that he never had a church. He said he had married 30 couples during the present month, and 493 within a year.

MUSEUM OR OPERA HOUSE?

Mr. Mapleson Says the Academy Directors Have Leased the Hippodrome Site.

Considerable surprise was manifested yesterday at the publication of the fact that negotiations were in progress, which had for their object the leasing of the Madison Square Garden to the managers of the O'Leary belt walk. It was said that Mr. Van Arsdale, the agent of the Harlem Railroad, had agreed to lease the Garden to the walkers' representatives after repairs had been completed. These would take about two or perhaps three months.

It was said yesterday that the Barnum Museum Company enterprise has fallen through. Negotiations for the erection of the buildings were pending between Mr. Barnum and the representative of the Harlem Railroad until the limit of time at which either party was to give a final answer. It is said that the treaty led through for lack of interest.

Mr. Van Arsdel was called upon at the Grand Central Depot in regard to the dropping of negotiations, but he declined to say anything whatever about the matter.

Manager Harpden of the Academy of Music says that the directors of the Academy have leased the ground on which the Madison Square Garden stands to the Van Buren Hotel.

years at a nominal rent, agreement that at the end of that time the building shall fall to the owner of the land. Col. Mapleson has a lease of the Academy for five years, but will relinquish it on leasing the new building. He cannot tell when the building will be opened, because the Madison Square Garden site will be begun. It can be finished, he says, by 1883.

BERLIN, Nov. 30.—The Voss Gazette violently attacks the North German Gazette for trying to palliate the persecution of the Jews.
